THE JEWISH SLAVE

"The Blessings of the Moon" Secures Freedom for Him.

By Leopold Von Sacher Masoch.

Translated by Harriet Lieber Cohen.

Sahag ran his vessel into one of the small harbors on the Asia Minor coast. The four victims were gagged, thrown into bags, placed with other merchandise upon a wagon, and driven off at a rapid pace. Upon reaching the high wall courtyard of the Armenian's house the prisoners were released from the bags and led into the presence of Sahag and his wife.

"My dear little friends," said Varvasa to the girls, who stood in fear and trembling before her, "a great happiness awaits you. You will soon be surrounded by luxury and riches, but you cannot accept this good fortune until you have passed through a novitiate. I will take the trouble of teaching you the art of pleasing your future master, and of be[illegible]le to kee[illegible] plying the Black and Mediterranean Seas brought her in a large income.

At first she was annoyed that Naome understood so little Arabian. She had wished to employ him as a salesman, and was obliged instead to place him among the porters who unloaded the goods and carried them into the warehouses. Soon, however, another feeling awoke in the pretty widow's breast; she discovered that she was interested in her new slave, that he pleased her more day by day, that he intruded upon her thoughts in spite of herself, and feeling that these emotions were unworthy of her she grew angry and exasperated against this unconscious enemy of her peace.

And Naome? Once only had the ample veil floated back and revealed the noble, spiritual face, once only had the Turkish cloak been laid aside and [illegible] moment

Suddenly one of the [illegible]s of the Talmud recurred to him:

Greenville, Miss.

Mayor—Rosenthal.

While the engagement of Miss Maude Rosenthal and Mr. Sam Mayor, popular young people of Greenville, had been announced some weeks ago by Mrs. N. Rosenthal, the wedding was not expected by the friends of the young people until December, but Dan Cupid got busy and stole a march on friends by having the ceremony said on Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's mother with only home folk present, Rabbi Meilziner saying the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Mayor departed on their honeymoon for Memphis on Thursday morning's train. The groom is popular in business and social circles, while the bride is a charming and thoroughly accomplished young woman.

Caused by Disease of t[illegible]neys.

The close connection which exists between the heart and the kidneys is well known nowadays. As soon as kidneys are diseased, arterial tension is increased and the heart functions are attacked. When the kidneys no longer pour forth waste, uremic poisoning occurs, and the person dies and the cause is often given as heart disease, or disease of brain or lnugs.

It is a good insurance against such a risk to send 10 cents for a large trial package of "Anuric"—the latest discovery of Dr. Pierce. Also send a sample of your water. This will be examined without charge by expert chemists at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. When you suffer from backache, frequent or scanty urine, rheumatic pains here or there, or that constant tired, worn-out feeling, it's time to write Dr. Pierce, describe your symptoms and get his medical opinion—without charge and absolutely free. This "Anuric" of Dr. Pierce's is 37 times more active than lithia, for it dissolves uric acid [illegible]e system, as hot water does sugar.

Church, and because of their friendship and association, he was one of the main dependences of the charity which Dr. H. H. Waters so quietly and effectively dispensed. There was hardly a ship captain who made this port who was not his comrade, and his home was filled with their affectionate souvenirs from almost every land on the globe. The evenings were his recreation times, the hours when he dispensed hospitality like a prince, and in his home he would have made a regiment as welcome as a few, and delighted in the privilege. His home was really a group of homes, for he loved to have and insisted upon having his dear ones around him. At one time there were five generations in the row at 1121 St. Charles avenue. His wife was mate for his every mood and the matchless mother of ten children, and the fairy grandmother of more. Husband and wife kept you[illegible] together, and the sudden parting was really the first revelation that their youth wa[illegible] not eternal.
