

H. B. Jacobs

H. B. Jacobs, son of Joseph Aaron and Esther Jakowitz, was born at Horlo, Hungary, 1867. He received his early education in Europe, and at the age of eighteen he immigrated to America, and located at Scranton, Pennsylvania. From Scranton he moved to McKeesport where he remained for one year, and then moved to Nashville, where he remained for a short time before permanently locating in Memphis.

In 1896, he married Miss Sarah Klein and has two children: Saul B. Jacobs, who is associated with the Leo Kahn Furniture Company, and a daughter, Flora, who has been an active worker in many of the local Jewish organizations.

Mr. Jacobs is a trustee of the Beth El Emeth Congregation, and was very active for a number of years in collecting the dues for the congregation. He also served the Beth El Emeth Congregation as vice-president for seven years, as treasurer for five terms, and as financial secretary from 1928 to 1930.

Mrs. Jacobs, with Mrs. Ferd Loewenberg, was instrumental in organizing the Ladies Auxiliary of Beth El Emeth Congregation in 1919. She is also active on the Auxiliary Board of the B'nai B'rith Home.
